Course Overview

Pathology collectors play a crucial role in healthcare teams. They are responsible for collecting blood and other specimens that are vital for diagnosing diseases and determining appropriate treatments. Our nationally accredited Certificate III in Pathology Collection (HLT37215) course is meticulously designed to provide comprehensive training, equipping you with the necessary skills and knowledge to become a skilled pathology collector.

This course will provide training in various areas including, the collection of blood and other pathology specimens, infection control practices, human anatomy and physiology, medical terminology, work health and safety, customer service skills, communication skills, legal and ethical requirements, ECG and basic first aid. Upon successful completion, the student will gain the qualification to work as a pathology collector in private and public pathology collection centers, hospitals, and medical clinics.

Immersive Learning:

Hands-On Experience in State-of-the-Art Classrooms

IHNA's learning environment is designed to be engaging and practical. Our state-of-the-art classrooms replicate real-world pathology collection centers, providing you with hands-on experience. You'll benefit from the guidance of qualified educators who are actively engaged in the industry, imparting invaluable insights and best practices.

This course involves live blood collection (venipuncture) sessions where students participate in practical sessions to practice drawing blood from each other under the guidance of our skilled trainers. The students are required to complete 15-20 blood collection (venipuncture) procedures before advancing to the 35-hour Professional Experience Placement. This hands-on practice is designed to ensure that the students develop proficiency and confidence in performing blood collection (venipuncture) procedures, thereby preparing them for real-world scenarios in healthcare settings.
